Description

Beautiful bungalow located in the North End in a sweet cul de sac in the North Pole. While this particular house may appear baked, it has been built in 2017 and reflects the traditional characteristics of the older neighborhoods from last century. You'll marvel at the lush jube-jube and sugar tree forest while making your way up the candy ribbon road to this ginger sweet home. The experienced builder has learned from the previous years that sealing the home to keep its structure from caving is simply icing on the cake. Striped Candy Canes and snowflakes are in keeping with the hottest Trend in roof designs, and this particular model has all the smarties upgrades. This home won't last long get it before it's chomped up by a waiting family.
